The Foundations of Mindfulness

Dīgha Nikāya 22

INTRODUCTION

Introduction

Thus have I heard.

On one occasion the Blessed One was in the Kuru country where there was a town of the Kurus named Kammāsadhamma. There the Blessed One addressed the bhikkhus thus: “Bhikkhus.” “Bhante,” the bhikkhus replied to the Blessed One. The Blessed One said this:

“Bhikkhus, this is the one-way path for the purification of beings, for the surmounting of sorrow and lamentation, for the passing away of pain and dejection, for the attainment of the true way, for the realisation of Nibbāna, namely, the four foundations of mindfulness. What are the four?

Here, bhikkhus, a bhikkhu dwells contemplating the body in the body, ardent, clearly comprehending, and mindful, having subdued longing and dejection in regard to the world. He dwells contemplating feelings in feelings, ardent, clearly comprehending, and mindful, having subdued longing and dejection in regard to the world. He dwells contemplating mind in mind, ardent, clearly comprehending, and mindful, having subdued longing and dejection in regard to the world. He dwells contemplating phenomena in phenomena, ardent, clearly comprehending, and mindful, having subdued longing and dejection in regard to the world.

Contemplation of the Body

Mindfulness of Breathing

And how, bhikkhus, does a bhikkhu dwell contemplating the body in the body?

Here, bhikkhus, a bhikkhu, gone to the forest, to the foot of a tree, or to an empty hut, sits down; having folded his legs crosswise, straightened his body, and established mindfulness in front of him.

Just mindful he breathes in, mindful he breathes out.

Breathing in long, he understands: 'I breathe in long';

or breathing out long, he understands: 'I breathe out long.'

Breathing in short, he understands: 'I breathe in short';

or breathing out short, he understands: 'I breathe out short.'

He trains thus: 'I will breathe in experiencing the whole body';

he trains thus: 'I will breathe out experiencing the whole body.'

He trains thus: 'I will breathe in tranquilising the bodily formation';

he trains thus: 'I will breathe out tranquilising the bodily formation.'

Just as, bhikkhus, a skilled lathe-worker or his apprentice, when making a long turn, understands: 'I make a long turn';

or, when making a short turn, understands: 'I make a short turn';

so too, bhikkhus, a bhikkhu

breathing in long, he understands: 'I breathe in long';

or breathing out long, he understands: 'I breathe out long.'

Breathing in short, he understands: 'I breathe in short';

or breathing out short, he understands: 'I breathe out short.'

He trains thus: 'I will breathe in experiencing the whole body';

he trains thus: 'I will breathe out experiencing the whole body.'

He trains thus: 'I will breathe in tranquilising the bodily formation';

he trains thus: 'I will breathe out tranquilising the bodily formation.'

In this way he dwells contemplating the body in the body internally, or he dwells contemplating the body in the body externally, or he dwells contemplating the body in the body both internally and externally. Or else he dwells contemplating in the body its nature of arising, or he dwells contemplating in the body its nature of vanishing, or he dwells contemplating in the body its nature of both arising and vanishing. Or else mindfulness that ‘there is a body’ is simply established in him to the extent necessary for bare knowledge and repeated mindfulness.

And he dwells independent, not clinging to anything in the world. That is how, bhikkhus, a bhikkhu dwells contemplating the body in the body.

[THE SECTION ON MINDFULNESS OF BREATHING IS FINISHED.]

The Four Postures

Again, bhikkhus, a bhikkhu when walking, understands: ‘I am walking’; when standing, he understands: ‘I am standing’; when sitting, he understands: ‘I am sitting’; when lying down, he understands: ‘I am lying down’; or however his body is disposed, he understands it accordingly.

In this way he dwells contemplating the body in the body internally, or he dwells contemplating the body in the body externally, or he dwells contemplating the body in the body both internally and externally. Or else he dwells contemplating in the body its nature of arising, or he dwells contemplating in the body its nature of vanishing, or he dwells contemplating in the body its nature of both arising and vanishing. Clear Comprehension

Again, bhikkhus, a bhikkhu is one who acts with clear comprehension when going forward and returning, who acts with clear comprehension when looking ahead and looking away; who acts with clear comprehension when bending and stretching his limbs; who acts with clear comprehension when wearing his robes and carrying his outer robe and bowl; who acts with clear comprehension when eating, drinking, chewing, and tasting; who acts with clear comprehension when defecating and urinating; who acts with clear comprehension when walking, standing, sitting, falling asleep, waking up, talking and keeping silent.

In this way he dwells contemplating the body in the body internally, or he dwells contemplating the body in the body externally, or he dwells contemplating the body in the body both internally and externally. Or else he dwells contemplating in the body its nature of arising, or he dwells contemplating in the body its nature of vanishing, or he dwells contemplating in the body its nature of both arising and vanishing. Or else mindfulness that ‘there is a body’ is simply established in him to the extent necessary for bare knowledge and repeated mindfulness.

And he dwells independent, not clinging to anything in the world. That is how, bhikkhus, a bhikkhu dwells contemplating the body in the body.

Unattractiveness of the Body

Again, bhikkhus, a bhikkhu reviews this same body up from the soles of the feet and down from the top of the hair, bounded by skin, as full of many kinds of impurity thus:

‘In this body there are head-hairs, body hairs, nails, teeth, skin, flesh, sinews, bones, bone-marrow, kidneys, heart, liver, diaphragm, spleen, lungs, intestines, mesentery, stomach, feces, bile, phlegm, pus, blood, sweat, fat, tears, grease, spittle, snot, oil of the joints, and urine.’

In this way he dwells contemplating phenomena in phenomena ... or else mindfulness that ‘there are phenomena’ is simply established in him to the extent necessary for bare knowledge and repeated mindfulness.

And he dwells independent, not clinging to anything in the world. That is how, bhikkhus, a bhikkhu dwells contemplating phenomena in phenomena in terms of the seven enlightenment factors.

The Truths

Again, bhikkhus, a bhikkhu dwells contemplating phenomena in phenomena in terms of the Four Noble Truths.

And how, bhikkhus, does a bhikkhu dwell contemplating phenomena in phenomena in terms of the Four Noble Truths?

Here, bhikkhus, a bhikkhu understands as it really is: ‘This is suffering. The is the origin of suffering. This is the cessation of suffering. This is the way leading to the cessation of suffering.’

Suffering

And what, bhikkhus, is the noble truth of suffering? Birth is suffering; ageing is suffering; death is suffering; sorrow, lamentation, pain, grief, and despair are suffering; union with what is displeasing is suffering; separation from what is pleasing is suffering; not to get what one wants is suffering; in brief, the five aggregates subject to clinging are suffering.

And what, bhikkhus, is birth? The birth of beings into the various orders of beings, their coming to birth, precipitation [in a womb], generation, the manifestation of the aggregates, obtaining the bases for contact – this is called birth.

And what, bhikkhus, is ageing? The ageing of beings in the various orders of beings, their old age, brokenness of teeth, greyness of hair, wrinkling of skin, decline of life, weakness of faculties – this is called ageing.

Saccapabba

Puna caparaṃ, bhikkhave, bhikkhu dhammesu dhammānupassī viharati catūsu ariyasaccesu.

Kathaṃca pana, bhikkhave, bhikkhu dhammesu dhammānupassī viharati catūsu ariyasaccesu?

Idha, bhikkhave, bhikkhu ‘idaṃ dukkhāṃ’ti yathābhūtaṃ pajānāti, ‘ayaṃ dukkha-samudayo’ti yathābhūtaṃ pajānāti, ‘ayaṃ dukkha-nirodho’ti yathābhūtaṃ pajānāti, ‘ayaṃ dukkha-nirodha-gāminī paṭipadā’ti yathābhūtaṃ pajānāti.

Dukkha-sacca

Katamaṃca, bhikkhave, dukkhāṃ ariyasaccaṃ? Jātipi dukkhā, jarāpi dukkhā, maraṇampi dukkhāṃ, sōka-parideva-dukkha-domanass’upāyāsāpi dukkhā, appiyehi sampayogo dukkhō, piyehi vippayogo dukkhō, yampicchaṃ na labhati tampi dukkhāṃ, sāṅkhittena pañcupādāna-kkhandhā dukkhā.

And what, bhikkhus, is death? The passing of beings out of the various orders of beings, their passing away, dissolution, disappearance, dying, death, completion of time, dissolution of aggregates, laying down of the body, the cutting off of the life faculty – this is called death.

And what, bhikkhus, is sorrow? Bhikkhus, for one who has encountered some misfortune or is affected by some painful state, there is sorrow, sorrowing, sorrowfulness, inner sorrow, inner sorriness – this is called sorrow.

And what, bhikkhus, is lamentation? Bhikkhus, for one who has encountered some misfortune or is affected by some painful state, there is wail and lament, wailing and lamenting, bewailing and lamentation – this is called lamentation.

And what, bhikkhus, is pain? That, bhikkhus, which is bodily pain, bodily discomfort, painful, uncomfortable feeling born of bodily contact – this is called pain.

And what, bhikkhus, is grief? That, bhikkhus, which is mental pain, mental discomfort, painful, uncomfortable feeling born of mental contact – this is called grief.

And what, bhikkhus, is despair? Bhikkhus, for one who has encountered some misfortune or is affected by some painful state, there is the trouble and despair, the tribulation and desperation – this is called despair.

And what, bhikkhus, is ‘union with what is displeasing is suffering’? Here, bhikkhus, for one who has undesirable, unlovely, disagreeable forms, sounds, odours, tastes, and tactile objects;

And what, bhikkhus, are the five aggregates subject to clinging that, in brief, are suffering? They are: the material form aggregate subject to clinging, the feeling aggregate subject to clinging, the perception aggregate subject to clinging, the volitional formations aggregate subject to clinging, the consciousness aggregate subject to clinging. These are the five aggregates subject to clinging that, in brief, are suffering.

This, bhikkhus, is called the noble truth of suffering.

Origin

And what, bhikkhus, is the noble truth of the origin of suffering? It is this craving, which leads to renewed existence, accompanied by delight and lust, seeking delight in this and that; that is, craving for sensual pleasures, craving for existence, and craving for non-existence.

Now where, bhikkhus, does that craving when it is arising arise? When settling where does it settle? That in the world which is pleasant and agreeable – here this craving when it is arising arises, here when settling it settles.

In the world what is pleasant and agreeable? In the world the eye ... the ear ... the nose ... the tongue ... the body ... the mind is likeable and pleasing – here this craving when it is arising arises, here when settling it settles.

In the world the forms ... the sounds ... the odours ... the tastes ... the tactile objects ... the mental phenomena is likeable and pleasing – here this craving when it is arising arises, here when settling it settles.

This, bhikkhus, is called the noble truth of the cessation of suffering.

The Way

And what, bhikkhus, is the noble truth of the way leading to the cessation of suffering? It is this Noble Eightfold Path; that is right view, right intention, right speech, right action, right livelihood, right effort, right mindfulness, right concentration.

And what, bhikkhus, is right view? Bhikkhus, the knowledge of suffering, knowledge of the origin of suffering, knowledge of the cessation of suffering, knowledge of the way leading to the cessation of suffering: this, bhikkhus, is called right view.

And what, bhikkhus, is right intention? Intention of renunciation, intention of non-ill will, intention of harmlessness: this, bhikkhus, is called right intention.

And what, bhikkhus, is right speech? Abstinence from false speech, abstinence from divisive speech, abstinence from harsh speech, abstinence from idle chatter: this, bhikkhus, is called right speech.

And what, bhikkhus, is right action? Abstinence from the destruction of life, abstinence from taking what is not given, abstinence from sexual misconduct: this, bhikkhus, is called right action.

And what, bhikkhus, is right effort? Here, bhikkhus, a bhikkhu, for the nonarising of unarisen evil unwholesome states; he generates desire, makes an effort, arouses energy, applies his mind, and strives. For the abandoning of arisen evil unwholesome states; he generates desire, makes an effort, arouses energy, applies his mind, and strives. For the arising of unarisen wholesome states; he generates desire, makes an effort, arouses energy, applies his mind, and strives. For the maintenance of arisen wholesome states, for their nondecay, increase, expansion, and fulfilment by development; he generates desire, makes an effort, arouses energy, applies his mind, and strives. This, bhikkhus, is called right effort.

And what, bhikkhus, is right mindfulness? Here, bhikkhus, a bhikkhu dwells contemplating the body in the body, ardent, clearly comprehending, and mindful, having subdued longing and dejection in regard to the world.

He dwells contemplating feelings in feelings, ardent, clearly comprehending, and mindful, having subdued longing and dejection in regard to the world.

He dwells contemplating mind in mind, ardent, clearly comprehending, and mindful, having subdued longing and dejection in regard to the world.

He dwells contemplating phenomena in phenomena, ardent, clearly comprehending, and mindful, having subdued longing and dejection in regard to the world. This, bhikkhus, is called right mindfulness.

And what, bhikkhus, is right concentration? Here, bhikkhus, secluded from sensual pleasures, secluded from unwholesome states, accompanied by thought and examination, with rapture and happiness born of seclusion, a bhikkhu enters and dwells in the first jhāna.

With the subsiding of thought and examination, with internal confidence and unification of mind, being without thought and examination, having the rapture and happiness born of concentration, he enters and dwells in the second jhāna.

With the fading away as well of rapture, he dwells equanimous and, mindful and clearly comprehending, he experiences happiness with the body; that which the noble ones declare: ‘He is equanimous, mindful, one who dwells happily’, he enters and dwells in the third jhāna.

With the abandoning of pleasure, with the abandoning of pain, with the previous passing away of joy and displeasure, which is neither painful nor pleasant and includes the purification of mindfulness by equanimity, he enters and dwells in the fourth jhāna. This, bhikkhus, is called right concentration.

This, bhikkhus, is called the noble truth of the way leading to the cessation of suffering.

In this way he dwells contemplating phenomena in phenomena ... or else mindfulness that ‘there are phenomena’ is simply established in him to the extent necessary for bare knowledge and repeated mindfulness.

And he dwells independent, not clinging to anything in the world. That is how, bhikkhus, a bhikkhu dwells contemplating phenomena in phenomena in terms of the Four Noble Truths.

Conclusion

Bhikkhus, if anyone should develop these four foundations of mindfulness in such a way for seven years, one of two fruits could be expected for him: either final knowledge here and now, or if there is a trace of clinging left, nonreturning.

Let alone seven years, bhikkhus. If anyone should develop these four foundations of mindfulness in such a way for six years ... five years ... four years ... three years ... two years ... one year, Let alone one year, bhikkhus. If anyone should develop these four foundations of mindfulness in such a way for seven months, one of two fruits could be expected for him: either final knowledge here and now, or if there is a trace of clinging left, nonreturning. Let alone seven months, bhikkhus. If anyone should develop these four foundations of mindfulness in such a way for six months ... five months ... four months ... three months ... two months ... one month ... half a month, Let alone half a month, bhikkhus.

If anyone should develop these four foundations of mindfulness in such a way for seven days, one of two fruits could be expected for him: either final knowledge here and now, or if there is a trace of clinging left, nonreturning.

‘Bhikkhus, this is the direct path for the purification of beings, for the surmounting of sorrow and lamentation, for the passing away of pain and dejection, for the attainment of the true way, for the realisation of Nibbāna, namely, the four foundations of mindfulness.’

It was with reference to this that it was said. This is what the Blessed One said. The bhikkhus were satisfied and delighted in the Blessed One’s words.

FOUNDATIONS OF MINDFULNESS IS FINISHED.

The syllables are chanted in either mid (unmarked), high (punâ), low (cāparam), or rising tone (khō), according to the tonal rules of Thai syllables. This is known as the saṃyok style.

In the main text only the rising tone is marked to serve as a reminder. A complete example can be seen below.

The syllable has rising tone (khō), if:

- it begins with either: s, h, ch, th, ṭh, kh, ph, and
- is a long syllable, and
- is not stopped.

‘sm-’ syllables are an exception: tasmā, āyasmā, yasmīm, ...

A syllable is ‘stopped’ when it ends with either of:

k, c, t, ṭ, p, g, j, d, ḍ, b, or s.
